JOB OPPORTUNITIES

(1) Experiment Station Editor, College of Agriculture, University of Arkansas

Duties: Editing and supervising publication of manuscripts prepared by staff members for publication as Experiment Station Research bulletins. Preparation of annual popularized report of certain phases of research work for the published annual report of the Experiment Station. Preparation of material for newspaper publicity concerning the activities of the Experiment Station and College of Agriculture and aiding staff members in similar undertakings.

Qualifications: Training in journalism; experience in preparation and publication of manuscripts and in news reporting.

Salary: Undetermined, but expected to be commensurate with individual's training and experience.

Apply to: Dr. R. P. Bartholomew, Associate Director of Research, College of Agriculture, University of Arkansas, Fayetteville, Ark.

(2) Photographer, University of New Hampshire, Durham.

Duties: Taking good news and illustrative photographs for our public relations work and research publications; teaching photography successfully to undergraduate students; taking motion pictures as well as stills.

The University also provides a visual aids booking service to schools and other groups using educational and documentary films. It is possible that a combination job might be worked out for a man who combines experience and ability in stimulating such a visual aids program with photographic ability. The visual aids work, however, would be promotional almost entirely, with no extensive program of preparing educational films being planned.

Qualifications: Man with ability to do jobs listed.

Salary: $2,300 to $2,600, depending upon the qualifications.

Apply to: Francis E. Robinson, University Editor, University of New Hampshire, Durham, N. H.

- (3) Illustrator, Department of Extension Teaching and Information, Cornell, University, Ithaca, N. Y.

Salary: $2,000 starting pay, plus a current bonus of 15 percent which may be discontinued after March.

Apply to: William B. Ward, Head of the Department of Extension
Teaching and Information, Cornell University, Ithaca, N. Y.

- (4) Visual Aids Specialist, Agricultural Extension Service, Louisiana
State University, Baton Rouge.

Duties: Develop a strong visual aids department; obtain wider and more effective use of slidefilms, slides, photographs, and other visual media in the extension educational program; also the production of such media.

Qualifications: A technician with experience in a number of visual media, and with major experience in at least one of them, such as motion pictures, still photography, art, lay-outs, etc.

Salary: Not yet determined.

Apply to: Miss Marjorie R. Arbour, Extension Editor, University Station, Baton Rouge 3, La.
